

VALVETECH CAPE - on the move again

Valvetech Cape was founded in 1984 and started operating from humble beginnings in the Maitland area, trying to break into the Cape market. By the early 1990's the company was well established and moved to Paarden Eiland close to the Caltex refinery (now Chevron). At the turn of the century Valvetech had grown substantially and once again moved to larger premises in Killarney Gardens. In the past decade, more recent growth in market share and in stockholding has once again warranted larger premises.

Valvetech Cape is proud to announce its move to larger premises just around the corner which are more modern and boasts some 65% additional floor space to cater for the larger stockholding and envisaged future growth.
